

CRAYON RESIST WATERCOLORS

Supplies: watercolor paper, watercolors, white crayon
You will also need: a small cup of water and a paper towel

1. Begin by deciding what your painting will be. The white crayon will create "blank space" where your paint won't work.
2. Using your white crayon, draw a design on your paper.
3. Now, you can paint over your crayon drawing with your watercolors.
4. Since you have two pieces of paper, now you can make a new painting with a different design!
5. Make sure to give it all time to dry, and then you can display your amazing art!
